Informed Consent to Chiropractic Treatment

The Nature of Chiropractic Treatment: Chiropractic health care seeks to restore health through natural means without the use of medicine or surgery. Chiropractors commonly use their hands or a mechanical device or the use of tables in order to restore mobility and function of joints that are not moving or functioning optimally. For many patients certain therapies or exercises may also be used to maximize healing and pain relief.

Possible Risks: The chiropractic adjustment or other clinical procedures are usually beneficial and seldom cause any problem. In rare cases, underlying physical defects, deformities or pathologies may render the patient susceptible to injury. The doctor, of course, will not give a chiropractic adjustment, or other treatment, if he/she is aware that such care may cause problems. It is the patient's responsibility to inform the doctor of any known pathological defects, illnesses, or deformities which would not otherwise come to the attention of the doctor. The most common adverse effects are minor and temporary and include stiffness or soreness after the first few days of treatment (similar to starting a new exercise regimen or having braces put on your teeth). Other rare but potential complications include muscular strain, fractures of bone, injury to intervertebral discs, nerves or spinal cord, or stroke/cerebrovascular injury (estimated to be less than 1 in 2 million to 5.8 million cervical manipulations). Complications from therapies used in addition to your adjustment are rare but may cause skin irritation, burns, soreness, bruising, or other minor complications.

Risks of remaining untreated: Delay of treatment often results in further deterioration of the condition and may lead to chronic pain and disability, or surgery.

I have read the above explanation of chiropractic treatment. I have had the opportunity to have any questions answered to my satisfaction. I have fully evaluated the risks and benefits of undergoing treatment. I have freely decided to undergo the recommended treatment and hereby give my full consent to treatment. Initial: _____
